

Wildflower Wonderland

As September begins our wildflowers have emerged everywhere and are blooming from the red dirt all across the Central Wheatbelt. Many have been spotted along the Wheatbelt Way!

The bare and bland hills are covered in an array of colours, following the recent rainfall. This season has brightened the road sides, granite outcrops and views for our visitors and locals.

Wildflowers provide vast views and great photo opportunities for those who visit the many locations in which they flower. Each wildflower hotspot is only a short trip from the town site and they promise not to disappoint. The drive itself will stun you with this seasons landscape full of lush green and crisp yellow crops.

Wondering where to go?

- ◇ Danberrin Rock
- ◇ Eaglestone Rock
- ◇ Talgomine Reserve
- ◇ The 5 Roads
- ◇ Mangowine

Plenty of our rocks and reserves boast a range of wildflowers from pretty pink everlastings to vivid red Kunzea pulchella's. They may be individual scattered flowers, a singular bush abutting the base of the rock, or a tiny hidden treasure worth looking for.

Be sure to let us know of your sightings and their locations.
